New website c&a goes live

PASMA

The new PASMA website at www.pasma.co.uk is now live. Incorporating a number of new features and benefits, its distinctive design and enhanced content depicts the association as a modern, progressive organisation setting the agenda for mobile access towers in the 21st century.

Intended to reinforce PASMA's presence in the marketplace and act as an indispensable reference source for towers, the new site is easy to navigate and provides the visitor with a quick and easy route to any information required.

Every effort has been made to speed and simplify the various options - for example, training centres in a particular region - and members can now enjoy the benefit of a dedicated member's area where they can keep in touch with the latest news and developments at the association.

Communications officer, Jill Couttie, the person responsible for overseeing the web project and bringing it to fruition said: "The site is already attracting positive comments from members and non-members alike. Only time will tell, but already there are signs that the website is proving to be a welcome and popular focus amongst the mobile access tower community."

PASMA Village at Vertikal Days 2011

increasing number of applications for which they are being used.

Already supported by the CPA, IPAF and ALLMI, the association is keen to build a strong and positive presence for towers at Vertikal Days, the UK's only show dedicated exclusively to cranes and access. "It's one of PASMA's primary roles to promote towers and tower use," says Peter Bennett, "which is why we've created this first-time opportunity for PASMA members to get involved and publicise their products and services."

Anyone wanting more information should please contact Pam Penny on 01902 851334 or email pp@vertikal.net

PASMA and Vertikal Days have teamed up to create the PASMA Village at this year's event to be held on 22nd and 23rd June, at Haydock Park, near Manchester.

The 'Village' will comprise a PASMA gazebo for smaller organisations and training centres - together with PASMA information point - plus outside stand space and demonstration area for manufacturers and hirers. It will provide a unique opportunity to showcase the latest and best in mobile access towers and the News in brief

3T/AGR Review:

PASMA's major review of fall protection guidance and best practice in mobile access towers has now entered its consultation stage.

UKCG:

On 3 February the association made a presentation to the UK Contractors Group's (UKCG) health and safety committee at its headquarters in Centre Point, London. The opportunity was taken to update UKCG's members - 30 of the UK's largest construction companies - on the latest developments at PASMA and to explore potential areas of collaboration.

IOSH Conference:

PASMA will be one of eight organisations, including the Health & Safety Executive (HSE), delivering a paper at this year's IOSH Conference and Exhibition. The association's technical manager, Don Aers, will speak as part of the 'Working at Height' seminar organised by the Access Industry Forum (AIF) in Spotlight Theatre 2 on 15 March, at ExCeL, London. For the full programme please visit www.ioshconference.co.uk

Safety & Health Expo:

PASMA will also be taking part in the AIF's Knowledge Base, Access Live and Access Village at this year's Expo. Dates are 17-19 May at the NEC, Birmingham. More at www.safety-health-expo.co.uk

AIF Website:

In addition to PASMA, the AIF also has a new website to better reflect its work, role and achievements.
