GOING UP IN THE WORLD

A history of Simon Engineering and the development of the powered access industry by Denis Ashworth

Ashworth was a keen engineer from an early age, after an apprenticeship with Renold Chain, the young Ashworth found himself in at the very start of the modern powered access industry.

This book is an unusual combination of autobiography and history of Simon Engineering Dudley, a pioneer of the powered access industry and at one time the world's largest manufacturer of aerial lifts. Ashworth combines coverage of his personal life as an engineer in a fast growing competitive industry. It includes clear, well documented overviews of the challenges faced by each key new product development and how he and his engineers overcame the commercial and technical challenges.

The book is written in an easy to read manner, highlighting failures as well as successes. This coffee table sized book includes dozens of photographs from the very beginning of the industry and is a must read for anyone who is interested in powered access or in comparing modern day engineering challenges with those of an entirely different era.

The book will be published this summer with pre-publication orders selling for £14.50, plus £3.50 postage and packing, a £5 saving compared to the published price of £19.50.
