

Local shows lead the way

August and September saw Platformers Days in Germany and Hoogwerker Dagen in Holland. Both shows are dedicated to access and lifting specialists and so, while not drawing the big crowds of Intermat or Bauma, or even for that matter SED, the 1,000 or so visitors that do attend each show are responsible for 60 to 70 percent of the powered access purchases in each country. Each event is more a rental industry get-together than a traditional exhibition. Although as our brief pictorial coverage shows, there is plenty to see. Further views of the shows and new products can be seen on www.vertikal.net, simply put either Platformer days or Hoogwerker into the search box.

Sennebogen

The Dino team with their 5,000th unit

A Snorkel scissor lift from New Zealand

SkyJack

Oil & Steel

the Aichi team

The Fraco team

Alexander Ochs of Vertikal with Ron Jackson of JLG

John and Stephen Ball

Two dudes chill out

A mini Hinowa

Isreal Celli of JLG, Joachin Metzner of Partner Lift and Kai Schliephake of JLG seal a deal